Tekla Structures 20.1 SR3 [64-Bit]-[FirstUploads] Tutorials., in the slide article you showed, they said that once you have the 40% chances of something going wrong, then you get to try and find the problem. At least I think that was what they said. So, in your perfect world, the "honey bees" would do a good job of finding all of those problems. But, you never really know, so one of those "honey bees" might kill your pet dog or sting you. You might say that everyone knows that it is okay to have those risks, and the insurance pays for it. So, it is fine. But, you would probably have to replace the farm every other year, and the cost to replace your farm is quite high. So, insurance won't work well for you. So, people don't like risks. They don't like people who don't want the risks. Because, they don't like not knowing what is going to happen. But, insurance tells them that there are risks that they can't control. So, they feel very uneasy about that. But, they do feel that they have to pay for the risks that they can't control.
