Graphic design is the most important aspect of your work, and more people are really becoming more interested in the creation of new, unique and visually striking designs. In 2020, we can expect more trends to come into the spotlight, mainly regarding the way in which we use photos, fonts and typography. The three biggest trends that we will be seeing in graphic design next year are: Femininity in graphics Colorful typography Geometric shapes Each of the following three graphics trends will become bigger and more in demand than they already are right now. We will also be seeing more people using a bright and colorful graphic design that will be suitable for both men and women. A lot of people are also quite passionate about using geometric shapes in their designs and will start to see more and more of these trends come to the forefront. This article will also show you a few photos and a couple of visual examples of each of the graphics trends that we are talking about above. Femininity in Graphic Designs In the past, there was an era when graphic designers were more focused on creating male-centric designs. Most of the designs that were created at the beginning of the twentieth century were meant for men. These designs were quite simplistic, and were more focused on the use of geometric shapes. Now, thanks to technology advancements and the widespread use of computers, the field of graphic design has become very diverse. In 2020, we will be seeing a lot more diversity in the design sector. In particular, we will see a huge shift from the use of the overly masculine typefaces that we saw back then to feminine ones. This is because we can see more women using computers these days than we used to. Therefore, many of the men are c6a93da74d
